

There's a Good Deal to Say About a Flag

There's something about a flag—
it's before you start waving it
there's a pretty lengthy protocol
about how the flag should be honored and displayed. I gather the following facts from "Flags of All Nations," a brochure reprinted
from "Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia":

Flown from a mast the United States flag should always be above
any subordinate flags, such as the Red Cross emblem, service, or other banners.

In a parade with several flags
the U. S. emblem is always carried on the marchers' right.

If it is a crossed-flags display
the U. S. banner leans toward the viewer's left, with its staff outside
the staff of the subordinate flag.

And here is a critical distinction
about display of the flag at public meetings: If the emblem is mounted on the platform it must be at the speaker's right — the audi-ence's left. But if the flag is placed
down in the auditorium its position is reversed — then it must be on the audience's right.

Our encyclopedia brochure, which
only arrived in yesterday's mail,
carries a full description of all the
flags which preceded Old Glory
to the North American shore. When Columbus made his discovery in 1492 he was carrying the quartered flag of Castile and Leon — representing Ferdinand and Isabella
and Imperial Spain.

French and English and Dutch
flags were flown over various
areas of our land in colonial times.

But in 1775 the East Coast colonists produced the Cambridge, or Grand Union flag as the obvious
parent of today's Stars and Stripes.

The Cambridge flag closely resembled today's banner, having
the same arrangement of red and white stripes but using the British emblem in place of the upper left square of stars. Paul Jones
flew this Cambridge flag as a naval hero.

On June 14, 1777, finally appeared the official Stars and Stripes
as we know the flag today.

Deadline Nears for Placing Cotton in Loan

Cotton producers are reminded
by H. B. Gilbert, Chairman Hemp-stead County PMA Committee, that next Thursday, April 30, is the final date for placing their 1953 cotton in the government loan.

Notes and loan agreements covering warehouse stored cotton must be signed by the producer and delivered to a lending agency or to the County PMA office on or before April 30, 1953.

Loans draw interest at 3 1/2 percent per annum and mature July 1, 1953 or earlier upon demand.

Liens can be redeemed any time prior to July 21 upon payment
by the producer or by selling his equity to buyers through regular commercial channels by means of equity transfer agreements. There is no delay in redeeming cotton
loans under the 1952 programs as
all loan documents remain in the office of the lending agency or the County PMA Committee.

After July 31 the producer cannot redeem the cotton. The Commodity Credit Corp., has a right
to sell, purchase or pool the cotton
securing the loan in accordance with the loan agreements. However,
if the cotton is pooled, the producer will share ratably in any
over plus remaining upon liquidation of the pool. In no event will
the producer receive less for his cotton than the support price for his grade and staple.

Election Expense Outlined by Committee

In reply to a recent editorial
questioning the fees charged to candidates by the Hempstead Democratic Central Committee the following reply was made today by Chairman W. S. Atkins:

To Whom It May Concern:
What is the cost of holding two
(2) elections in the City of Hope, Arkansas?

There are eight (8) voting precincts in the City of Hope that require six (6) officials each, or a total of forty-eight (48) persons to conduct an election. These officials are paid $4 each for each election, or a total of $384. At seven (7) of these precincts the Committee furnishes lunches and
in most instances the evening meal
for forty-two (42) of these officials,
at a cost of $42 for lunches only
and if the evening meal is furnished it would be $84 for each election,
or $168 for both elections. The election supplies for the City of Hope, Arkansas, in 1951, cost $138.03. This year there will be supplies to be purchased for each of the towns of Fulton, Washington, Ozan, McCaskill and Blevins.
It requires two (2) meetings of the County Committee for each election, or four (4) meetings for the two (2) elections. There are thirty-three (33) Committeemen and they are paid their expenses for attending each meeting. The secretary is also, paid for his services in such sum as the Committee determines.

It will not be necessary to hold
the first, or preferential, primary election, unless three (3) or more candidates qualify for one (1) or more of the offices to be filled and,
if the first primary is not held the
expense will be materially reduced
and a refund made to each candidate as has been done in the past,
but there is no way of knowing
whether the first primary will be held or not. Therefore, the fees
must be based on the assumption
that there will be two elections
held.

These are the facts with reference to the scale of fees charged
by the Hempstead County Democratic Central Committee. The meetings of the Committee are public meetings and the Committee
welcomes any inquiry from any citizen with respect to the manner
in which the Committee conducts
the affairs of the Democratic Party
in Hempstead County, Arkansas.
Respectfully submitted,
W. S. ATKINS,
Chairman

Poll Opposes Farm Tax Exemptions

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congress-
man's poll of his predominantly rural Arkansas district shows that his constituents are opposed to continuing tax exemptions for farm
marketing cooperatives.

Rep. E. C. (Took) Gathings announced the result of his poll to-
day. The congressman, who represents Northeast Arkansas — an area devoted almost exclusively
to agriculture — said he sent out 40,000 questionnaires to his constituents. Gathings received 2,000 replies.

On the question of continuing
tax exemptions for the crops, Gathings said 52.9 per cent of those replying said they opposed
it. Only 40.1 per cent favored the exemptions.

The district's voters heavily favor the U. S. applying greater
pressure in Korea to gain peace,
and a blockade of Communist China.

In answer to the question about intensifying efforts in Korea as a means of gaining peace, 90.7 per cent said they favored such action, 6.5 per cent did not.

To the question "Do you favor
blockading Communist China?" 90.6 per cent answered yes, 7.2
per cent no.

Gathings found his constituents
almost evenly divided on the question of expenditures for the Point
4 program. Of those replying, 48.9
per cent favored such expenditures, 47.5 did not.

The tally also showed 86.4 per cent favored continuing to send arms to U. S. Allies; 74.8 per cent favored a Pacific defense pact similar to NATO; 64.4 per cent favored cutting the budget for foreign aid; 85.5 per cent opposed a decrease spending cut which would delay a 143 wing Air Force and development of the atomic energy
program; 73.6 per cent favored
continuing price supports at 90
per cent of parity and 67.5 per cent favored extending the term of
a representative from two years to four years.

If You Think Finding a Baby Sitter Is Tough Now Take a Look Into Future, Say 1960

By HAL BOYLE.
NEW YORK (AP) — You think it's hard to find a good baby sitter today.

Well here is the way the problem
will probably size up by 1960:
Joe McFarb and his wife, Mary,
Ann, decide to take a night off
from parenthood and go out and see a movie. But who will stay home and watch little Junior Joe calls up the Happy Home Baby Sitting Agency, and the conversation
runs as follows:

Joe — I would like a good baby
sitter for tonight, and...

Agency — For tonight? Are you kidding? We are booked up through the spring and summer. How about next fall?

Joe — I don't know what movie
I'll be showing next fall. Mary Ann and I want to see the one that's on tonight. Maybe you'll have a cancellation.

Agency — We don't like to do business on an emergency basis. Usually our sitters insist on having
met our clients socially, to be sure they are proper people. They can't afford to get mixed up with the wrong crowd.

J. Doe — Look, I'm in a real
spot. Can't you help a fellow?
Agency — It's against the rules,
but... I'll try to speed up the formalities.

Joe humble — Gee, thanks, what do I have to do?

Agency — Well, you and your wife
and son had better drop down to our office at once. Bring along a recent photo of your home. We will also need a letter of credit from
your bank, and a character testimonial from your pastor.

Joe dazedly — That all to have
a copy of your son's latest school
report card, an estimate of his personality by his teacher, and a cer-tification of his health?

least some of the economy cuts.

The bill was opened up for
amendment after general debate
yesterday brought charges that the

Night and Day Tidelands Grind in Progress

By HARRISON B. HUMPHREIS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate opponents of state ownership of offshore submerged lands faced a night and day grind beginning to-
day.

They came back fighting after a 56 to 33 bumping in the first Senate vote on the issue. Majority Leader Taft of Ohio countered
lacked with arrangements for Senate sessions around the clock, beginning at 11 a.m. today.

After 19 days — and quite a few nights — of Senate debate, the opponents still refused to agree to a
date for a final vote.

Taft said this showed "a determination to continue the filibuster."

Arrangements were made to keep
a quorum of 49 senators present
at all times. Cots were ordered for senatorial outposts in the cloak
rooms.

The test of strength came on a
Taft motion late yesterday to "lay

Public Hearing on Spies Is Called

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators
called a public hearing today on
what one said was a bizarre story
of Communist spies who used a
dishwasher's helper and a commissary cook in a Detroit war plant
as key aides.

Sen. Welker (R-Iowa) told reporters the tale would unfold in the questioning of Thad Mason, a Polish born resident of Wallington,
N. J., by the Senate internal security subcommittee today.

Welker, who headed a subcommittee in investigating the case,
said it occurred in World War II
at a General Motors factory. He said it probably is too late to prosecute anybody involved on spy
charges.

He said a spy sold some "top
secret plans" right under the nose
of security police and inserted
them in the pages of a newspaper
to carry them out of the room.

A cook, he said, then "borrowed"
the newspaper, sneaked the plans
to the dishwasher's helper, who
had them photographed in a hideout in the plant. The plans were
then sneaked back to the office,
Welker said.

Welker declined to give details
about the plans.

He said the inquiry also would
deal with the theft of some secret
chemical formulas from "a Du Pont plant."

Presbyterians Plan Ground Breaking Rites

The members of the Hope Presbyterian Church will hold a Ground Breaking Ceremony for their new Church and Sunday School Buildings next Sunday morning, May 3,
as a part of the morning service.

The service will begin at the
present church building at 10:50
a.m., and immediately after the sermon the congregation will go in a body to the site of the new buildings where the ground-breaking
will take place.

The Presbyterians are beginning
construction of the new Church
building and educational plant in the 700 block on South Main Street.
Preliminary work on the foundation
is already in progress which will include the drilling of holes for 85 belbottomed concrete pilings to be sunk 25 feet into the earth.

B. W. Edwards of Hope is construction superintendent. The plans were drawn by A. N. McAninch, architect, of Little Rock. Construction is expected to be completed in less than a year and estimated cost is $125,000.

French Troops Dig in Against Communists

By LARRY ALLEN
LAUANGPRABANG, Laos (AP) —
French planes poured troops and munitions today into this royal seat
of the little Indochinese kingdom
of Laos, threatened by Communist Vietnamese troops reported only 12 to 25 miles away.

French and Laotian soldiers dug trenches and constructed barbed
wire entanglements around the little town of 6,000 hereditary homeless, ailing King Sisavang Vong.

The King's son, Crown Prince Savang, told newsmen his people
are determined to defend their country and "we know we are going to defeat the enemy if they attack Laungprabang."

A French major reported that advance units of the invaders are within 12 miles of the town on the north, while on the east, larger
forces had advanced to within 25
miles.

Gen. Raoul Salan, French commander in chief in Indochina, flew to Laungprabang yesterday from his headquarters at Hanoi, 275
miles to the northeast. He assured
the crown prince the French would

Just Letdowns, No Depression Business Told

WASHINGTON (UP) — Commerce Secretary Clegg today told
businessmen they can expect
"some letdowns" in certain business lines but "no old fashioned depression."

Addressing the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, Clegg said "We must not lower our guard" while exploring Soviet peace feelers. But he added that recent Russian gestures "seem to hint that Moscow
may react more favorably to President Eisenhower's practical program for permanent peace."

The secretary gave this estimate
of what would happen if there
should be peace:

"Stock market fluctuations — of course. Adjustments during transitions following later reductions
in defense spending — sure. Some downturns in business activity in specific lines after over-stimulus
tion ends — yes. But no old fashioned depression."

Weeks promised that the administration "will not sit twirling its thumbs if at some far off date it should be confronted by a sizable
economic emergency."

But he told businessmen they
have "no grounds for assumption
of a post-Korean economic slump."
Especially is this true, he said, if businessmen lay plans now to expand old markets and develop new ones in anticipation of defense
spending cutbacks.

Paisley 4-H Club Studies Identity of Various Plants

The Paisley 4-H Club met last week in the auditorium with County Agent Oliver L. Adams and Home Demonstration Agent Lorraine Blackwood. The song leader James Dugan, led the group in singing "Arkansas Traveler."

Mr. Adams took the boys out on the school campus and showed
them how to identify the different kinds of plants.

Mrs. Blackwood showed the girls
how to make purses out of cloth
and coffee cans, and how to make two different kinds of rugs. She gave the girls recipe books and
asked them to bring three muffins
and three biscuits to the next meeting to be judged.

The next meeting will be held
May 19.

U. S. Planning to Send Help to Indochina

WASHINGTON (UP) — The United States plans increased military aid and diplomatic support
for Indochina's fight against Communist onslaughts which threaten
all Southeast Asia, administration
sources reported today.

If any doubts existed as to Communist intentions in Indochina
they have been thoroughly dispelled by the new Red attacks
against the kingdom of Laos and Macao's weekend reply to President Eisenhower's peace
plan. The Soviet response emphasized that the Communist led rebels in Indochina have Moscow's blessing as an Asian "liberation"
movement.

Developing American plans to
aid French and native defenders
of Indochina do not call for sending American fighting troops to the battle area. But officials said the new foreign aid program soon to be presented to Congress will include an increase in funds for Indochina.

Official See Small Hope for Peace

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — A faint
fresh glimmer of hope that the Communist may actually be moving toward a truce in Korea has been found by officials here today.
The latest Red proposals for dealing with prisoners of war.

This feeling was not substantial,
they charged by the United Nations
threat to suspend the talks once
again unless the Communists produce a constructive solution.

In the latest Red proposals, presented to the U. N. Command, yesterday, the Communists appeared for the first time to recognize officially that some prisoners held by the U. N. may never be willing to go home to Red China or Korea.

If this interpretation is correct,
and if the Reds are willing to act on it, no matter how fairly
in further negotiations, it may be a key to the future of the truce talks. In any event it was regarded here today as good reason for going on with the meetings despite
wide differences.

References to the existence of possible existence of P. O. W.s in U. N. hands who will never voluntarily accept repatriation appear
at least by implication in two sections of the Red proposals.

By RUTHERFORD POATE
TOKYO (UP) — Thirty-five ju-
bilent American soldiers, freed
from Communist prison camps
took off for Honolulu, California
and home today in the first flight
of the Army's "freedom airlift."

They are due in Honolulu this

Calif., tomorrow. Then they will be sped by plane to their homes in 32 states.

Eight of the boys who came
back were on stretchers... but
all were homebound from the horrors of the Communist hell
camps in which thousands of their comrades perished.

Another planeload will follow
them over the Pacific tomorrow
weather permitting, and others will leave here on succeeding days.

It is hoped that all 148 Americans freed in the exchange of sick
and wounded prisoners will be able to make the trip.

Joe weekly — Is that all? Agency — Well, of course, naturally you are prepared to pay our usual insurance costs for picking up your sister and co-sitter and returning them to their homes. They will expect a hot meal on their arrival, and refreshments in your refrigerator. In case they should wish to entertain a few friends while on duty, it goes without saying that your television set must be in perfect condition.

Joe — Wait a minute. You lost me. What is this business about a co-sitter?

Agency — All baby sitters today insist on bringing a co-sitter along to accompany them. You know, like all the pilots do.

Joe — How much is all this going to cost me?

Agency — Our minimum fee is $1.75, but right now we aren't taking on any more of these charity cases.

Joe — Look, mister, all I want is some nice elderly lady who knows about kids and would like to pick up my sister and watching little Jimmy for a while. We take no money. Don't you know of any baby sitters like that?

Agency — Well, I had one like that and made the mistake of asking her to take a shower. She wanted to know how to take a shower.

Joe — Look, mister, I want to make you a proposition. I'll hook you with the movie. What's the movie?

Agency — It's "The Girl Who Sings in the Shower." You know, Mary Ann and I go to work for a baby sitter.

Joe — You can. But be quick. We got four jobs waiting for you right now. All high class.

on the table, and thereby kill a Federal control substitute by Sen. Anderson (D-NM) to which had been added the "bill for education" amendment of Sen. Hill (D-Ark).

Thirty-eight Republicans and 18 Democrats voted to kill the Anderson bill proposal. Against them were 24 Democrats, 7 Republicans and 1 Independent.

The combined Anderson-Hill substitute would have required all states to have a federal control over the state's system of federal highways and dedicated federal revenues to national defense and to system of federal aid to state school systems.

Anderson made an 11-hour appeal to the Senate not to "over-ride the Supreme Court." Then, showing the strain of the long debate in which he had been a leader, he was forced to leave the Senate chamber for rest and medical attention.

Carl, in his first speech of the debate, said the Supreme Court was wrong in declaring that the federal government had paramount rights in the lands beyond low water mark on the coast.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS

CHICAGO (AP) — An easier tone which developed first in corn spread to other sections of the grain market before the close on the Board of Trade today.

Corn dropped on a falling off in demand for the cash grain and fears government offerings of off-grade corn soon would be increased. The May contract suffered most, losing nearly 2 cents at one time.

Wheat showed early strength on export sales of both hard and red wheat to West Germany, and of red wheat to Yugoslavia. Forward the close, however, wheat gave up its early gains in sympathy with declines in other cereals.

Wheat closed 1-1/2 lower, May 23.20; corn 1-1/2 lower, May 21.57 1/2; oats 1-1/2 lower, May 14 1/2; rye 1-1/2 lower, May 16.11 1/2; soybeans 1-1/2 lower, May 23.05 1/2.

SPA Backers Ponder Troubles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressmen friendly to the Southwestern Power Administration today pondered the best strategy to follow in efforts to get more money for that agency.

The House Appropriations Committee recommended last week that SPA be held to a total of $1,650,000 for the year starting July 1 — an action called "a slap in the face" by Clyde Ellis, executive director of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association.

This was $7,400,000 under the amount recommended for SPA by former President Truman last January and $1,950,000 below that suggested more recently by Interior Secretary McKay.

Iran Officer Murdered by Opponents

By MARC PURDUE

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iran's government today blamed a group of retired Army officers and government opponents for the murder of a police chief.

A police officer, Gen. Mahmoud Ashraf, was found strangled in a roadside grave yesterday. A communiqué issued by Col. Hosseini Ashraf, military governor of Tehran, said the names of the alleged slayers and those who plotted the crime would be disclosed later.

The communiqué said investigation and confessions of those responsible had led to the discovery of Ashraf's body six days after his mysterious disappearance in the heart of Tehran.

The body was found several miles northeast of the capital in a shallow grave. A rope was around his neck, his hands and feet were bound and his mouth was stuffed with handkerchiefs.

Medical examiners said he had died at least four days earlier, probably by strangulation April 20.

The Red command was reported also building up its forces circling the Plain des Jarras, 70 miles southeast of Lamprang, where French and Iranian forces have thrown up strong defenses in the hope of bringing the Vietnam to a showdown battle on ground of their own choosing.

But the Vietnamese, bypassing the plain, have aimed three powerful columns from the northwest, north east and east directly at Lamprang. Its capture would represent an enormous political victory. The Red columns already have clipped off a third or more of the kingdom of 80,000 square miles.

At Vientiane, seat of the Lao government 140 miles south of the royal home, defense preparations were under way also. Evacuation plans for the town's 15,000 civilians have been drawn. General mobilization of all able-bodied men 16 to 25 was strapping the government service of its youth on players.

The mobilization order has boosted Laos' active, armed forces from an estimated 12,000 to about 20,000 men. The forces are off-cered by the French but, like the French, equipped with American-supplied uniforms and weapons.

They are being strengthened by the frantic daily airlift of French and colonial troops from neighboring Viet Nam, the coastal Indochinese state.

Neighboring Thailand, just across the Mekong River from Vientiane, also prepared for the Communist approach. The Bangkok government was reported rounding up all Indochinese in Thai territory suspected of Vietnamese sympathies.

'No' Is Answer to Prisoner's Proposal

BLACK RIVER FALLS, Wis. (UP) — Miss Odana Stenerson said today "I'll be no" when a released prisoner of war calls from Tokyo with a proposal of marriage.

The young woman said she is getting married to someone else May 9.

Marine Cpl. Lionel E. Peterson, freed after six months in a Communist prison stockade, told newsmen in Tokyo that he was going to place a telephone call to Wisconsin today and ask Miss Stenerson to marry him.

"I'm going to get married," he said.

But when Miss Stenerson was asked if this answer would be yes, she said "I'm afraid not."

She said she was in love with another man. She declined to identify her other suitor but said "I'm going to marry him."

Peterson told Tokyo correspondents that he was not engaged to Miss Stenerson but seemed confident he would be successful.

"I don't know how he got that idea," his former high school sweetheart said.

She said she had dated him about two years and had spoken of marriage before.

"I told him I didn't want to get married at that time," she said. "That was before he left."

Peterson was a prisoner of the Reds for about six months. He was captured on outpost Warsaw on the Western Front after suffering wounds in both legs.

Peterson said in Tokyo that the first thing he planned to do when he got back to Black River Falls was pick out a ring.

Miss Stenerson said "I'm afraid it wouldn't do any good for Peterson to plead his case in person on his arrival in the United States."

Baby Wins Life, Death Struggle

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — A lively little infant, Louis Beltrami Jr., has won a life and death struggle over the law of averages.

Doctors at Ventura County Hospital said today he is ready to go home. When the tot was born prematurely last Nov. 23 he weighed only 1 pound 13 ounces.

Now he tips the scales at a healthy 7 pounds 4 ounces, after being kept in an incubator for many weeks.

"This little fellow is made of mighty fine stuff," observed one doctor. "The chances were 100 to 1 against him and he made it."

U. S. Urged Not to Repeal Tariff Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — A prominent industrialist today sought to persuade the U. S. Chamber of Commerce not to take its proposed stand in favor of lowering tariffs and repealing the "Buy American" law.

Leland I. Doan, president of Dow Chemical Company, told the Chamber's 41st annual meeting here that, in an extreme liberalization of tariffs, some industries "would be more seriously damaged or even destroyed."

"Much as we dislike — and are trying to circumvent — its necessity, there is one thing in favor of tax-supported foreign aid," Doan declared. "The burden falls equally upon the American people and upon American industry."

The "Buy American" law requires U. S. firms to be given preference in government purchases unless foreign suppliers submit markedly lower bids.

The Chamber's Police Committee has prepared resolutions for a convention vote tomorrow, calling for lowering of customs barriers to foreign imports.

Doan, from Midland, Mich., argued in a prepared speech that there is "plenty of evidence" that American tariff revision will not benefit friendly nations to economic self-sufficiency or substantially relieve the U. S. tax burden.

Granting the desirability of helping other nations out of their economic difficulties, Doan said, "Tariff reductions are something to be worked out slowly, judiciously and very selectively by qualified experts using economics and stability, rather than emotion, as their guide."

Warm Air Pushes Northward

The cool air in the South extended as far as Central Florida, which reported temperatures in the middle 50s early today.

Temperatures during the night were in the high 60s and low 70s in Kansas, Oklahoma and Northern Texas, as compared to the low 40s over most of the other parts of the Central Plains. It was 50 yesterday in Lamar, Colo., the highest reading in the state this year.

Would Oust Haggling in Elections

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Smithers (D-Fla.) said today selection of presidential candidates should be taken out of the hands of "a few haggling, ambitious, backroom barons."

He made the assertion in a statement prepared for a judiciary subcommittee hearing on his proposed constitutional amendment to set up a national presidential nominating primary.

The amendment would eliminate the national convention system of choosing presidential nominees.

Instead they would be selected at state primaries held on the same day throughout the nation.

"The people of America saw the inefficient, archaic, and disgraceful method of selecting presidents at the conventions which were held in Chicago last year," said Smithers. Last year's conventions were the first ever televised.

"There is no doubt that the people of the U. S. did not like what they saw," Smithers continued. "They don't believe that it is good democracy to leave the selection of presidential candidates in the hands of a few haggling, ambitious, backroom barons of professional politicians."

Volcano Kills Six Japanese Children

By FRED SAITO

TOKYO (AP) — Aso Volcano erupted thunderously today killing at least six of 400 school children peering into its depths.

Some unofficial death estimates ran as high as 10.

One hundred children were reported injured in Aso's first eruption in 20 years.

The youngsters were on an excursion inside the 15-mile-wide great crater of 5,247-foot Mt. Aso on Kyushu, Japan's southernmost island.

They were looking into one of five volcanic peaks inside the gaping crater when it awakened with a smoking roar, blasting rocks wildly into the air. Some were the size of a man's head.

The children fled in terror.

The full crater contains 11 farm villages with nearly 60,000 people, but they were not considered in danger.

The newspaper Nishi Nippon said the blast came from 4,339-foot Naka Dake Crater, one of the five peaks.

Rocks shot through grey smoke to almost 1,000 feet and then rained back to earth for 600 yards around.

The great crater is 24,500 acres wide, and contains two railroads and nine stations.

Full eruption of the entire crater apparently took place in prehistoric days, and only minor eruptions in some of the five peaks are recorded in Japanese annals.

The last big eruption of Mt. Aso took place in 1833. It showered rocks and ashes practically on all of the 16,000-square mile island of Kyushu.

At that time, the observatory issued an alarm and the eruption caused no casualties. Since then, Aso has been quiet with smoke and vapor coming out of small new craters, and only a few small eruptions.

Rocky Mound

The Rocky Mound Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. Ivan Bright on Thursday, Mrs. G. E. Barwick, Jr., was co-hostess.

The president, Mrs. F. J. Bruce opened the meeting with the group repeating the 112 Creed. Mrs. Clifford Messer led the song "Beautiful Dreamer." Mrs. Barwick took her devotional from Exodus, and then the group repeated the Lord's Prayer. Roll call was answered with short cuts to sewing.

During the business meeting the club voted to donate a lamp for a party. It was decided that the Community Improvement meeting would be held at the home of Mrs. F. J. Bruce on April 28.

Mrs. Coy Zumwalt discussed the new fabrics and the selection, sewing and care of them. Mrs. Lorraine Blackwood, HD Agent, showed samples of the new fibers and discussed their good and bad points. She also showed two rugs made of old felt hats and a series of colored slides on "A Step Saving Kitchen."

The Chinese sale was held. Many articles were sold and every one enjoyed the competition of the sale. After refreshments were served by the hostesses the meeting adjourned to meet next month with Mrs. Johnny McCorkle.

Dear Miss Dix: This may sound like a silly problem but it is both erasing me a lot. Seven months ago a bride of 21 moved into the neighborhood, and we became friendly. Since she didn't have much household equipment, I offered to lend her my things, and let her use my washing machine, etc. Soon we were having lunch together on the days she used the washer, and that has now become a taken-for-granted custom. Originally, I thought she would buy some of these household things as she went along, but now I discover that she is more interested in getting money into the bank than she is in purchasing equipment. She has never made an attempt to pay for electricity or water used in the washer, nor made any effort to repay, in any way, her use of my other things. I'm getting a little tired of it now, and am beginning to think she's taken advantage of me.

Of course, I realize that I was the one to offer these things in the first place, and I also realize that the girl is very young and perhaps hasn't learned to give as well as take. I'd hate to hurt her feelings as I really do like her, but I also hate to be imposed upon.

You Or Your Possessions

Answer: Only you can decide whether the satisfaction of not being imposed upon or the girl's friendship is worth more to you. On your choice depends your future actions. There's no doubt but that the girl is taking some advantage of you, but her youth and inexperience may account for her apparent thoughtlessness. Perhaps her present finances won't permit the purchase of major household equipment, or perhaps she's putting money in the bank for that purpose. Taking all these possibilities into consideration, you must make up your own mind whether you are being cultivated merely for the use of your possessions or whether your friendship comes first with her and your generosity second.

My frank opinion is that you are being "taken over" to some extent, though I'd like to give the bride the benefit of any doubt. Make sure of your ground before taking steps to stop the borrowing. If you do come to the conclusion that the magnet is your possessions, more than yourself, put a "not in use" sign on your household goods.

A WORRIED MOTHER

Answer: There may be disadvantages to a marriage with this boy, but they certainly won't include boredom! His culpability can be judged largely by the type of lying he does, why and where he does it, and if he injures anyone by it! He sounds to me like a dreamer who likes to entertain folks with his tall tales rather than a mean person who lies for the sake of hurting others. Naturally, if the latter is the case, I would advise a quick and permanent end to the friendship, but apparently the former instance is nearer the truth (if truth can be mentioned in this connection). If the boy ever gives stories for the entertainment or amusement of others, you and your daughter will just have to adjust to his imagination.

Dear Miss Dix: I am 28 years old and looking for a beautiful young lady to keep house for me.

These Days

E. Sokolsky

HAROLD GLASSER

Harold Glasser, who had long been in government service, is now connected with the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds. This is an important organization which functions in this country and in Europe.

Glasser was called before the Jenner Committee where he used the Fifth Amendment to refuse to answer questions which obviously could not incriminate him. For instance:

"Mr. Morris, Mr. Adler lived with you in Chicago at that time, didn't he?"

"Mr. Glasser, I refuse to answer that question, sir, on the ground it may tend to incriminate me."

Solomon Adler, it is true, has been identified by two witnesses as a Communist, but how is it possible that a demonstrable fact, as to his living with Glasser, could incriminate Glasser? Either they did live together or they did not.

Similarly, Glasser used the Fifth Amendment in connection with an oath he took on January 8, 1944, to which he signed his name, and in it Glasser, among other things, swears "that I am not an alien, nor a Communist, nor a member of any Nazi Bund organization, that I will not become a Communist, or a member of any Nazi Bund organization during such time as I am an employee of the Federal Government."

This man, who has held some of the most important positions in the United States Government, to which I shall refer in a subsequent article, was shown this oath, signed by him.

Then the following colloquy occurred:

"Senator Jenner, Is that your signature, Mr. Glasser?"

"Mr. Glasser, I refuse to answer that question, sir, on the ground that it may tend to incriminate me."

"Senator Jenner, You refuse to answer whether or not that is your signature?"

"Mr. Glasser, Yes, sir, I refuse to answer that question."

"Senator Jenner, You know your own signature when you see it, do you not?"

"Mr. Glasser, I refuse to answer that question, sir, on the ground it may tend to incriminate me."

This amazing sequence of questions and answers followed:

"Senator Walker, Were you a member of the Communist Party on the 4th day of January, 1944, when you were administered that oath, when you took that oath?"

"Mr. Glasser, I refuse to answer that question on the ground it may tend to incriminate me."

"Senator Walker, You want to deny that you ever took an oath such as that, do you?"

"Mr. Glasser, I refuse to answer that question on the ground it may tend to incriminate me."

"Senator Walker, As a matter of fact, at the time you were administered that oath, you were a member of the Communist Party?"

"Mr. Glasser, I refuse to answer that question on the ground it may tend to incriminate me."

"Senator Smith, May I ask again Did I understand the witness to say that admitting his own signature would be evidence tending to incriminate him?"

"Senator Jenner, That was his statement."

"Senator Smith, Is that right, Mr. Glasser?"

"Mr. Glasser, Yes, sir."

"Senator Smith, That you refuse to identify your own signature to an oath because to do so would tend to incriminate you?"

"Mr. Glasser, I refuse to answer the question on the grounds it would tend to incriminate me."

Solomon Jenner made the point that he believed the witness was within his rights under the Fifth Amendment because "if he admits that is his oath, he admits he lied when he took it."

Harold Glasser, hidden away in a vast bureaucracy, was in a position to influence the policies and actions of the United States. His importance cannot be overestimated, et, he refused identifying an oath which he signed and his own signature lest they incriminate him. When a man is so afraid of his past, and when that past was so important in American life, he needs to be investigated even more fully. That is being done, but such an investigation would be incomplete unless it includes evidence as to how he got his job in the important positions he held.

dora Powell Cook will be held Wednesday, April 29 at Bethel A. M. E. Church at 2 p.m. by the Rev. M. M. Wilburn of Little Rock. Burial will be in Cave Hill Cemetery.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

Game Hogs in Fish Time
By AL MCCLANE
Fishing Editor

There has been quite a splash in the local press lately concerning fishing. Spinning, in case you haven't been warned, is a method of fishing with a particular kind of reel, and said reel makes casting so easy that everybody catches fish, or so it would seem.

According to some observers, this is not a healthy situation. A good many pundits are lobbying to have the game banned, especially in heavily populated areas. The same thing happened in Europe years ago, and as a result, there are very few rivers abroad where John Q. Public can spin his balls. I'd hate to see the same thing happen in this country.

Granted that more people are fishing now than ever before and that conservation agencies are hard pressed to keep stocking our streams, but this still doesn't get at the real problem — the fisherman. He likes to think of himself as a sportsman, and in most cases he deserves that title.

There are others who will never obey fish and game laws no matter what kind of equipment they use. The issue at stake is less a conservation problem than a moral one. Game hogs exist long before anybody ever heard of spinning, and by creating social legislation designed to control what sporting tackle an angler may or may not use we are deceiving ourselves.

Several states have whipped up some half-baked laws that set aside certain portions of rivers for fly fishing only, lakes for fly fishing only, and rivers or ponds where you can spin, provided the lure has one hook and the blade of the spinner is no longer than 2 1/2 inches or whatever. I am by preference a fly fisherman. And a good one, I suppose I should appreciate what's being done in my behalf but I don't.

In some of the states I visit I can't even read all the fine print in their fish syllabi. As things stand, a guy throwing a tin minnow on a 3-pound-test line is basically inferior to the gent who dunks a job of worms. Nobody has blasted the bait fisherman because he is almost everybody who wets a line. All of which leads me to believe that the spinning ban is very undemocratic and if perpetrated, we'll be in the same boat as our cousins on the other side of the ocean.

People Help Prepare Against Reds

MANOI, Indochina, (UP) — Scouts and peasants joined French units today in preparing the Royal Laotian capital of Luang Prabang for an expected offensive by pro-Communist Vietnamese forces.

Scouts directed heavy traffic from the airfield, where a steady stream of commandeered airplanes brought in soldiers. The peasants used primitive tools to widen the runways.

Other recruits took men and guns to the French bastion on the Plain of Jars, 90 miles south-east of Luang Prabang, and to Vietnamese administrative capital 70 miles below the plains.

The spearhead of Vietnamese invaders pushed toward Pakse, an outpost 45 miles northeast of Luang Prabang, after capturing a small garrison five miles to the north.

French authorities praised the calmness of the civilian population at Luang Prabang.

A military headquarters spokesman here said more than 60 rebels were killed yesterday in repulsed attacks against posts in Northern

Nelson Daehn hasn't yet earned re-election to the Cotton States League All-Star team, but he did some powerful campaigning last night.

The dandy centerfielder, who hit .329 as a rookie in 1952, scored one run and knocked in the other two as the Monroe Sports clipped Meridian 3-2, to keep the defending champions in the cellar, 7-3.

The Millers' casino 19 lead nothing but a hit in the first inning and it stood up until the third, when Daehn doubled, went to third on an error and went in on an out; field play.

Meridian edged back in front with a fourth inning run on an error and 2 singles.

Daehn took charge again in the Monroe half, singling sharply to Platt manager Charley Harrington and Ray Rogers with the winning runs.

Hugh Blanton, who had knv58 the millers only the 9th before, preserved last night's triumph for Marvin Hatcher by coming in after Hatcher had loaded the bases with nobody out in the ninth. Blanton retired the side on a strikeout and a double play.

The pitchers had tougher times in the other games, with Pine Bluff walloping VNOILLE, 19-5; El Dorado taking Hot Springs, 10-7; 07,010 innings, and Jackson c7,010 innings, and Jackson nudging Natchez, 9-8.

Pole Flyer Wants to Join U. S.

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Polish Jet Pilot Franciszek Jarzewski, who escaped from his Communist-dominated homeland by flying a Soviet MIG-15 to Denmark, said today he is going to America to try to join the U. S. Air Force.

The 29-year-old lieutenant told a news conference here he would leave May 3 for the United States to take part in annual Polish-American celebrations there. He said that if he were accepted in the U. S. Air Force he would go to Korea to fight Communism if given the chance.

Jarzewski told newsmen he found life in the West all that he had hoped it would be. He came here to broadcast to Poland over the American sponsored Radio Free Europe.

U. S. Crime on Increase, Says FBI

WASHINGTON (INS) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover reported yesterday that the U. S. had a record-breaking 2,036,510 major crimes in 1952, an 8.2 per cent increase over 1951.

Hoover said there was a sharp upturn in violence and increases in every major type of offense. At that, he added, the figures were "considered conservative."

His disclosures in the FBI uniform crime reports show that for the first time in seven years urban areas were hit by increases in all crime classifications.

A one per cent drop in negligent manslaughter cases was the only decline noted in rural sections of the nation.

Crimes of violence rose 10.2 per cent, accompanied by an eight per cent rise in burglaries and thefts. The predecessor was an 11.8 per cent increase in felonious assaults. Close behind were armed and strong-arm robberies with 11.6 per cent.

Other vicious crimes on the up-grade were: murder, 5.7 per cent; rape, 2.6 per cent and manslaughter by negligence, 2.5 per cent.

Hoover also noted these trends: 1 — Auto thefts, 9.3 per cent; burglaries, .8 per cent, other thefts, 7.5 per cent. Nearly half of those arrested for these crimes were under 21.

2 — Police recovered 92 per cent of all stolen autos, 11.6 per cent of stolen money and jewelry and 6.2 per cent of all stolen furs.

3 — In large cities nearly 73 per cent of those arrested were white persons and slightly more than 25 per cent were Negroes.

BLONDES DIE YOUNG

By BILL PETERS

Copyright, 1952, by Dodd, Mead & Co., Inc. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

I sat down against the wall and wrapped the ropes around my legs. I had chosen a spot where I was out of the light that came from the kitchen.

"Lemme out of here!" I shouted. I heard Eddie laugh, and say something to Moore.

I gave it volume then, shouting and cursing at them, and finally the door opened and Eddie came halfway down the steps.

"I'm gonna put you to sleep, tough guy. You want to be out cold with them rats playing around you?"

I cursed him as viciously as I knew how, using words that would get under the skin of even an imitation man like Eddie. He swore under his breath and came down into the basement, taking the gun from his shoulder holster.

"Okay, you get it," he said, in a low, breathless voice. "I'm gonna beat that thick skull of yours into jelly."

He came over to me, shifting his grip to the barrel of the gun, and grinning. He was breathing hard. He raised the gun and swung it down viciously at my head.

I moved my arms, deflecting the gun with my elbow, and catching Eddie's skinny throat with my other hand. He fell on top of me, raising the gun again, but I chopped at his wrist with the edge of my hand, and the gun spun into the dirt floor. Eddie was choking and struggling, trying to dig a knee into my groin. I switched my free hand to his throat, and pressed both of my thumbs into his Adam's apple. There was no noise from him now, only the frantic scraping of his feet in the dirt, and the thrashing of his body against mine.

"Don't hit me any more!" I shouted for Moore's benefit, and tightened my grip on Eddie's throat. I don't know how long I held him that way, but it was long enough for me to think of Janey and the red-head and the deeper, deeper prayer I'd said to someone for just this chance. When I lowered Eddie to the floor he wasn't breathing any more; he was dead. My only thought as I picked up his gun was that it had been too easy for him, too quick, too merciful.

I checked the safety, and the cylinder, and started up the stairs. The door was open and I walked into the lighted kitchen.

"You cool him off?" Moore said, as I came through the door.

He was standing at the window, holding the curtain back an inch or so, and he tossed the question casually over his shoulder. The old man at the table looked up at me and made a funny straining noise in his throat, and then screamed in a high, whinnying voice.

Moore turned around, an unworried scowl on his broad, tanned face, and when he saw me he half-struck toward his coat pocket, but long before it got there I had fired twice, and one of the bullets struck him in the face above the right eye, and the other smashed into his neck. He fell back against the wall and slid down to the floor, his hand still plucking weakly at the gun in his pocket.

"Good-by, punk," I said to him, and he shook his head once, unhelpfully, and then closed his eyes and died.

I nearly shot the old man, too, but I got myself in hand in time. "You like cards, eh?" I said to him. "Okay, go on playing. Forget all about me, and you can get in quite a few more games. Got that?"

"Yeah, sure," he said, stuttering out of the words. I stared at him until he picked up the greasy pack and began laying out cards with hands that shook like thin branches in a winter's wind.

"Okay. Where are we?"

"About two miles from Gary, Indiana," he said, putting a card shakily into place.

"Where can I get a cab?"

"Half a mile. Left from this house. It's a bar and grill, and it's got a cabstand."

"You can tell Mort Ellerton I couldn't wait," I said.

"Sure."

"But I'll catch up with him soon," I said. "Tell him that."

He wet his lips. "I'll tell him."

I went over to Moore's body, looked through his pockets and found my gun. Then I wiped Eddie's clean — threw it into the basement.

The old man kept on playing cards.

"The old man hadn't fled. There was a bar and grill, and cab stand, a half-mile from his lonely shabby house. I gave a cab driver Terry Mitchell's address . . .

The desk clerk there looked me over and then checked with her before letting me go up. I didn't blame him; the blood had dried on my mouth and face, and I knew I looked as if I had just lost the great-granddaddy of all barroom brawls.

Terry opened the door and except for one shocked little cry, took over like a lady. She led me in, pulled off my coat and helped me into a chair.

"You should at least wait a little," I said.

"Shut up, please. I'll get you a drink."

She brought me a large shot of whisky. Using both hands, I put it away neat. I saw her staring at my wrists, her eyes wide and stricken. "I'm okay, don't take it so hard," I said.

"What happened to you?"

"Lots of things, and none of them pleasant. Get me another drink."

She was gone longer this time. I leaned back and closed my eyes. "Here, take this."

I opened my eyes. It was another drink. Terry had a pan of warm soapy water, too, and she knelt beside me and washed the rope burns on my wrists while I finished the second drink. The whisky sent warm, reviving waves through me.

Terry worked quickly but gently, her eyes anxious and her lips trembling slightly.

TUCSON — Bearing in mind that Harry Truman was born in Lamar, Mo., in 1884, two years after Jesse James was killed, and that since early childhood, he has lived in Independence, where Jesse and Frank were popular heroes, we come at the reason for his pugnacious loyalty to Tom Pendergast, Alger Hiss and lesser scoundrels of his cult. His violent temper and his detestation of Joe McCarthy for exposing traitorism in his State Department are consistent with this background.

Senator McCarthy stands in the same position that was occupied by Governor Thomas T. Crittenden, of Missouri, who procured the assassination of Jesse James by a treacherous subordinate and caused the surrender of his brother, Frank. The reason Frank came in and turned his guns over to Crittenden was that he was afraid that some trusted accomplice would shoot him in the back as Bob Ford had shot his brother. He had finally faked it because he could trust no man.

Governor Crittenden thus broke up the James gang and inspired rural police and vigilantes to a bold initiative which abruptly wiped out several new small, upstart bunches of marauders. He redeemed Missouri's reputation, and her nickname, "The Robber State," soon was lived down. Her commerce and society, which had been badly embarrassed by the James gang, took normal form.

Yet, Governor Crittenden was set upon by some of the press and much of the public. As in McCarthy's case, it was not his purpose or his success which raised objection. No: It was his "methods."

Governor Crittenden had persuaded the railroads, which were suffering much loss in lost and passenger revenue, to offer rewards for the arrest of Jesse and Frank and their followers. The proclamation did not promise a reward for them "dead or alive," which was a common phrase in such matters then and still is, for that matter. But Crittenden certainly did have in mind the probability that some subordinate member of the gang would rise to the bait.

Bob and Charles Ford, brothers, were tried for murdering Jesse and sentenced to hang. Crittenden pardoned them at once "on grounds of public policy." As recently as 1934 in commenting on the case of John Dillinger, who was killed by FBI men but with a price of $25,000 on his head "dead or alive" were this public service rendered by local police or civilians, the Louisville Courier-Journal observed that Crittenden "was through politically" and that he "never was nominated for anything again." The Courier-Journal did not endorse this popular repudiation of Crittenden. But it did recall that for years afterward one of the most popular sentimental songs of the people ran:

"And the dirty little coward
Who shot Mr. Howard
Has laid Jesse James
In his grave."

Jesse had adopted the name of Howard for his sojourn at the Ford's home in St. Joe, where Bob shot him in the back of the head.

The Jefferson City Tribune, commenting on the surrender of Frank, said, "We may not endorse the methods employed by the Fords to rid the world of Jesse James but the fact that he is gone reconciles us. However Governor Crittenden may have erred and blundered, he can always point with pride to the extermination of this band."

In the Alger Hiss case the attitude of the enlightened Washington Post, which is personally and politically devoted to Felix Frankfurter, the original, official sponsor of Alger Hiss, not only condemned the "method" of the House committee on Un-American Activities in laying by the heels this protégé of a sordid political clique but actually sorrowed for Hiss. It held his conduct to be less evil of itself than the timing thereof. To be sure, McCarthy had no part in this case, but it illustrates the point.

A dispatch from an unidentified paper published in the Crittenden memoirs and bearing the date of Truman's home town of Independence reveals the popular idolatry of Frank James on his railroad trip from Jefferson City to Independence, where he was delivered to the sheriff. The Dispatch said:

"At every stopping place great crowds had congregated... men, women and children crowded the

that either he was not tried, or, if tried, was acquitted of all the other indictments.

An unidentified editorial related that after Jesse was killed "the howling began" and the governor "was assailed as a murdered."

The grand irony occurred, however, when Frank solemnly insisted that the James gang had been public benefactors of their beloved state in scaring off Eastern Republican settlers who meanwhile had flocked into Kansas and Iowa and plastered the lands and homes with eastern mortgages. Missouri remained free of eastern Republican mortgages.

This is Truman's background. He Arrived in triumph at last in Independence, Frank James was allowed to receive 500 old friends, "among them many of the wealthiest, most popular and most influential men in the county." In a hotel room. A great many ladies called on his mother, Mrs. Samuels, a tough old frontier woman of the dark and gloomy ground who had lost an arm when a detective, trying for the reward, tossed a grenade into her home.

"One old farmer spoke up," when the talk of a loud arose, and said "we will make him one for $100,000 in 24 hours. 'Yes,' said Col. A. H. Powell, a prominent banker and farmer of Lee's summit. 'Yes, I will not alone go on his bond but I will get 20 of the best men in my town to do the same.'

"It was surprising to see with what eagerness men rushed forward to do whatever might be required."

There were three indictments in Jackson County. This is Truman's home County where his mother's old farm lies on which the Jackson County board, of which Truman was a member in Pendergast's day, made a fantastic loan out of school funds. One indictment was for murder. Two others were for two train robberies. There was another murder indictment in Davless County. Frank was acquitted of the first murder charge. I gather from a rather blurry memoir
